Global partners since 2017

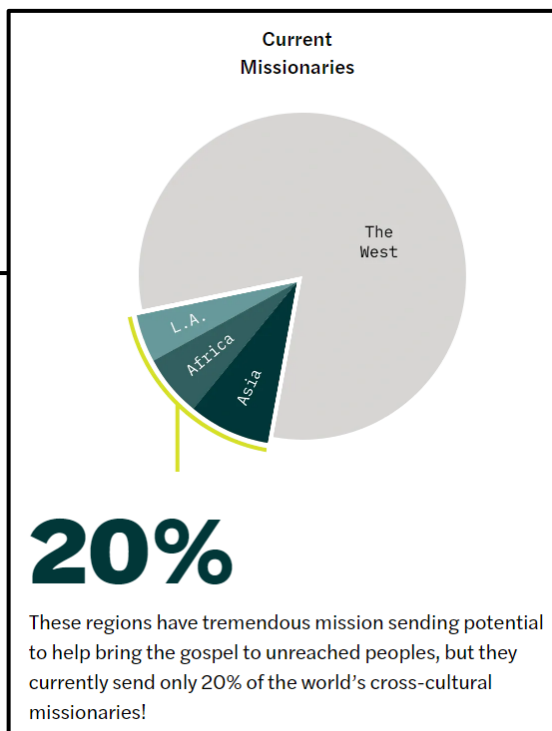

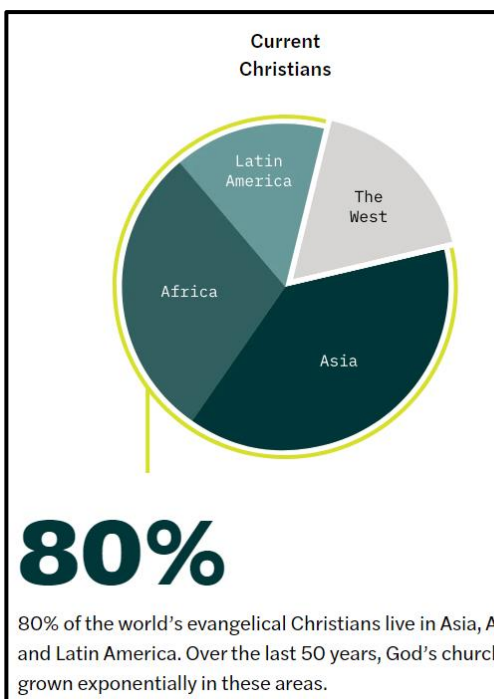

Dave and Liz Flynn are partners with Via, based in Peru and serving the region of Latin America in the area of mobilization. Mobilization is the work of getting Christians to get up and go, or as Via says, “We help churches, student ministries, and mission agencies across the globe to raise up, develop, and deploy their people to God’s global mission.” (www.vianations.org/about/our-mission) At this time in history, most of the world’s Christians live outside of the West, yet the West continues to send the most partners. One of Via’s aims is to change this, to mobilize the global church to take the Gospel cross-culturally.

Dave and Liz are the leaders of the Latin America International Team. They oversee the work in the diverse countries of Latin America, where evangelical churches are growing quickly. Dave and Liz help these churches catch the vision of taking the good news to the ends of the earth, a command that applies to all believers, regardless of country of origin.

Dave and Liz are constantly coming and going, leading training sessions, identifying and mentoring national leaders, sharing about mobilization with churches, teaching about support raising, traveling to local and global conferences, and more.
